Who We Are

The Columbia County Community Healthcare Consortium, Inc. is a not-for-profit corporation established in 1998 to create a network of health and human service providers serving the rural community in and around Columbia County.

Our Purpose

The result that we are trying to achieve is Healthy People.

Our Mission

We contribute to this result by advancing our central mission – increasing access to quality healthcare – through collaboration, education, information and service delivery.

Our Values

Access to quality health care is a fundamental right of every individual. Individuals are primarily responsible for their own health care decisions and require information and education to fulfill their role effectively. Improving the health of our community occurs through the partnership of health, social service, all levels of government, and wellness organizations. Collaboration and provision of preventative and wellness services has long-term efficiencies.

Dear Community Members and Supporters:

The year of 2015 has brought to bear many innovative and productive projects for the Columbia County Community Healthcare Consortium.

One of the most exciting and challenging projects has been the involvement with the NYS Medicaid Re-Design Project of DSRIP, which stands for Delivery System Reform Incentive Payment Program. We have been working collaboratively with old and new partners in this endeavor including the Alliance for Positive Health and Albany Medical Center. We have been “at the table” for many formative discussions, contributing to the discourse, advocating for our community and positioning the agency and other key local players for ongoing involvement in the decision making process.

We also launched the Bengali Community Youth Health Worker Project (BHP for short) which brought together nationally-recognized Community Health Worker trainers to train six Bengali Youth to serve as Community Health Workers in their community. We were also able to train existing staff from numerous community-based organizations, including the Columbia County Department of Health, Common Ground, the Columbia-Greene Mental Health, Common Ground, the Columbia-Greene Mental...
Health Association and some of our Consortium staff as well. These workers are currently serving the community under the direction of our subcontractor, Operation Unite, a new and valuable agency partner.

This past year we were also able to develop a new partnership with the Columbia County Department of Health's Migrant Worker Program, using staff from both the Cancer Services Program and our Navigator Program. This is a great example of a public-private partnership that can work effectively and efficiently.

Also in 2015, the Consortium was able to purchase a new multi-passenger, wheelchair-accessible minibus so that we could continue transport larger groups and those needing assistive devices.

The Consortium continues its role as a key member of the Columbia-Greene Controlled Substance Awareness Task Force, P. A. S. It On (a related Greene County initiative), the Columbia County Re-Entry Task Force and the Substance Abuse Committee of the Columbia County Community Services Board.

The Consortium had the honor of being named the 2015 Not-for-Profit Agency of the year by the Greene County Chamber of Commerce and was provided with a Citation by the NYS Assembly.

Finally, The Board of Directors of the Healthcare Consortium participated in a day-long Board Retreat that addressed many facets of Board responsibility and participation that has assisted in coalescing Board ideas and future planning for the Consortium.

As President of the Board of the Columbia County Community Healthcare Consortium, I thank the Board for their dedicated work; I thank the staff that works with great enthusiasm and competence; and I thank Claire Parde, Executive Director for her leadership, innovation and collaboration.
Helping People Get through the Healthcare Maze

Healthcare is a maze, with all the endless avenues, blind corners, and dead ends that implies. By design, it separates and segments the parts of the body, body from mind, and efforts from outcomes – while obscuring us from a whole and complete view. Is it any wonder that those most enmeshed in it yearn to be free of it and others fail to penetrate it at all?

For 18 years, the Healthcare Consortium has been helping people get through the healthcare maze by providing information, education, advocacy and direct assistance. Our role has been to ensure people can get and stay healthy by addressing the physical, financial, cultural, language, and knowledge barriers to accessing healthcare services. This is a necessary role for an organization like ours to play when the healthcare system is as labyrinthine and complex as the one we have.

Efforts are currently underway to reconfigure the healthcare system by cutting a swath through the barriers within it, carefully weaving together its essential parts, and starving it of the nourishment to its most unruly and perverse growth. It’s an enormous undertaking, and those who are dubious about its success can be forgiven for their skepticism. Nevertheless, it’s not an effort that can be ignored.

For the Healthcare Consortium, this has presented us with an opportune moment to fully embrace our role as a convener, facilitator, catalyst, and innovator. As a Rural Health Network, we are comprised of a broad array of health and human service providers with diverse specialties and interests. We have long maintained that our role is to represent not only the interests of the Consortium as an agency and provider, but also the interests of all our network members and, most importantly, the people we all serve. As a result, we’ve attempted to take a leadership role in educating our members and other partners, organizing their efforts, and ensuring that the collective interests of our community are represented and advanced.

We do this because, first and foremost, it is our charge, and also because we are convinced that something good must and will come from the concerted, coordinated, and faithful efforts of the smart, capable, and creative people involved. I am forever awed and inspired by our community – its talented members, its collaborative spirit, its resourcefulness; these qualities may not be unique to our community, but that makes them, and us, no less special. Therefore, I reflect on the past year with satisfaction and gratitude for our work thus far, and look forward with great enthusiasm and optimism to the next year and the good work still ahead.

As always, I feel it is my privilege to be involved in this work with the Consortiums’ incredibly talented and committed staff, dedicated Board, and our valued partners and supporters.
